

When I am done, I will wake up and go to the recovery room.

When the doctor says it's okay, I will go home. Everyone will be so happy and proud of me!

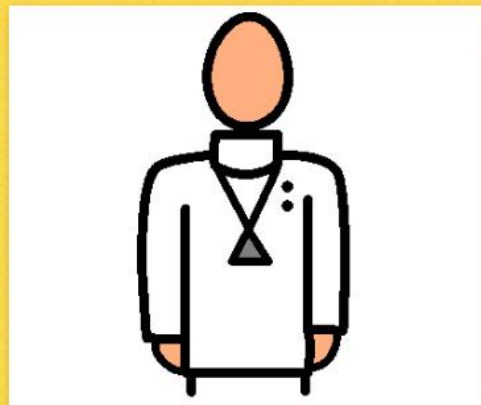

I can do activities in my room! I can play with toys or watch television while I am waiting.

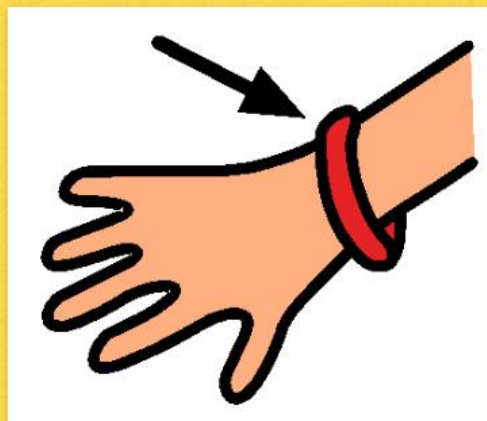

Soon, I will ride in a bed to get to the operating room. I will stay in my bed.

The doctors will come into my room. They will talk with my parents.

I will wear hospital pajamas. I will wear a hospital bracelet on my wrist. Everyone is proud to see how brave I am!

The nurse will come to check my temperature and take other measurements.

Next, I will go to the pre-anesthesia area. I will have my own bed.

When I arrive, I will wait in the waiting room. I will wait here until it is my turn.

If I am scared, I can sing a song or ask for my favorite toy. This will help me be brave while I am waiting.

I have to go to the hospital to have an operation. This may be scary, but I will be brave.
